

Under your current perception of what the study plan should contain, who thinks it is unrealistic to finish by our end-of-year deadline?

Who thought it was unrealistic at the time of the busy week?

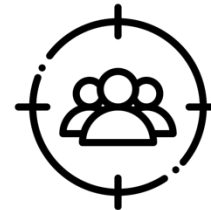

Scope

- different ideas of what document is / audience
- some chapters are getting too big (Ch. 2, Ch. 5)
- catch up on what should already be written
- Discussions lead to very important points, but needed for proposal?
- But do we need the whole picture to distil the proposal
- expectation in some chapters unclear

Objective

This document summarises the vision, ambition, current status, and future development plan of the LIFE mission. This document shall provide the fundament for attracting funds and acquiring partners for the next phase of the LIFE mission, i.e., the mission concept study.

Audience

Scientific and technical experts who might act as advisors of potential donors or serve on review boards.

Immediate reactions?

Do you still agree with goal and audience?

What happened between busy-week and now?

Do we need to rescope or push the deadline?
